

THE RIGHTS

OF ALL CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE

All adults should do what is best for you. When adults make decisions, they should think about how their decisions will affect children.

You have the right to give your opinion, express your view, and for adults to listen and take it seriously.

You have the right to find out things and share what you think with others.

Young people should not be discriminated against for any reason, including your race, colour, gender identity, language, religion, sexual orientation, opinion, origin, social or economic status, or disability.

You have the right to practise your own culture, language, and religion – or any you choose. You have the right to your own nationality (to belong to a country).

You have the right to protection from work that harms you, and is bad for your health and education. If you work, you have the right to be safe and paid fairly.

You have the right to live with and be raised by your parents unless it is harmful for you. You have the right to live with a family who cares for you. You have the right to special care and protection if you cannot live with your parents.

You have the right to choose your own friends.

You have the right to help if you have been hurt, neglected or abused. You have the right to be protected from being hurt or abused. You have the right to the best health care possible.

You have the right to special education and care if you have a disability. You have the right to a good quality education. You should be encouraged to go to school to the highest level you can.

You have the right to food, clothing, a safe place to live and to have your basic needs met. You should be able to do many of the things other children can do.

You have the right for your personal information to not be given out to anyone without your agreement.

You have the right to legal help and fair treatment by police, judges and magistrates.

No one is allowed to punish you in a cruel or harmful way.

Every child has...
...the right to be respected
...the right to dream
...the right to be loved and cared for
...gifts that should be recognized and valued
...the right to achieve their God-Given potential
...the need for unconditional love

Your education should help you use and develop your talents and abilities. It should also help you learn to live peacefully, protect the environment and respect other people.

You have the right to play and rest.

You have the right to special protection and help if you are a refugee (if you have been forced to leave your home and live in another country).

If you live in care or in other situations away from home, you have the right to have these living arrangements looked at regularly to see if they are ok and right for you.
